

Research & Development

A stylized illustration representing the research and development process. In the center, two figures are shown: one sitting on a stool using a laptop, and another standing and holding a tablet. The background is filled with various icons and symbols related to science and technology, including gears, a large magnifying glass, a document with a red 'T', a bar chart, and a large orange shape resembling a brain or a complex structure. The overall color palette is soft, with pastel tones of purple, yellow, and green.